The Papillon Boutique is located at the Apparent Project house and features quality handmade products by local Haitian artisans.

Come take a look at our unique handmade jewelry, hand crafted journals and children's clothing.

The Artisans and their Work

The Apparent Project was birthed out of a desire to see impoverished Haitian men and women be able to raise their children with dignity and not have to consider giving their children to orphanages because of poverty. It can be as little as $50 a month that keeps a family intact.

The Apparent Project exists to provide creative means for families to earn a living. Our jewelry program started as a small operation of four women making simple earrings from native seeds in Haiti. Today it has metamorphasized into a full scale operation employing approximately 50 men and women.

Each woman uses recycled paper products to make unique and lasting paper beads. They then couple the paper beads with other glass and seed beads to make one of a kind eco-friendly and beautiful jewelry.

Want to help?

- ✓ Host a no obligation jewelry party
- ✓ Donate recycled cereal boxes, magazines, glue, varnish, or other paper.
- ✓ Collect or donate glass or seed beads.
- ✓ Tell others about what we are doing and promote the efforts of these men and women.
